Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-24 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

In combination with other limitations of the claims, the cited prior arts fails to teach the steps of creating wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; discretizing the wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining rules from the one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments; and classifying one or more frequent patterns in the at least one test time series data set according to the rules, as recited in claim(s) 1, 12, and 23.

U.S. Patent No. 6,735,550 discloses a system, method, and software products to classify a feature in time series data. The systems include a processing system and an interface where the interface receives the time series data. The method is for operating a processing system. The software product includes a storage system that stores application software that directs a processing system. The processing system is configured to: process the time series data with a plurality of membership functions to generate a plurality of hypersurfaces, process the hypersurfaces to generate a composite hypersurface, process the composite hypersurface to identify clusters, and process the clusters to classify the feature. '550 fails to specify the steps of creating wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; discretizing the wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining rules from the one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments; and classifying one or more frequent patterns in the at least one test time series data set according to the rules, as now recited in claims 1, 12, and 23 of the present invention.

U.S. Patent No. 5,848,193 discloses a computer vision system having improved means for characterizing the parameters of edge segments of an unknown object is disclosed. The unknown object is transformed by a digital camera into an image and transformed by a wavelet projection transform so as to decompose the unknown objects into their constituent multi-scale edge segment features and provide recognition of the unknown object by relating their constituent edge features to each other. '193 fails to specify the steps of creating wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; discretizing the wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments of the at least one training time series data set; determining rules from the one or more frequent patterns in the discretized wavelet decomposed segments; and classifying one or more frequent patterns in the at least one test time series data set according to the rules, as now recited in claims 1, 12, and 23 of the present invention.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
